Ravenna /University District Redevelopment Opportunity with Existing Income from 14 Multi-Family Units

These four properties have been in the same family for generations and while they provide steady income, they are also prime for redevelopment. All of the properties offer incredibly peaceful park-like settings even though they are just a stones throw away from the University of Washington, UWMC Hospital, Burke-Gilman Trail and U-Village Shopping Center.

Two of the parcels are zoned LR1 (M) and two of the parcels are zoned LR3 (M). Seattle's Lowrise Multi-Family Zoning allow for cottage housing, rowhouses, townhouses, single family homes and apartments. LR1 zoning provides a transition between single family home zoned areas and more intense mutli-family and commercial areas. A mix of housing types similar in scale to single family homes such as cottages, rowhouses and townhouses are encouraged. LR3 zoning provides for a variety of multi-family housing types in existing multi-family neighborhoods and along arterial streets. A mix of small scale multi-family housing such as townhouses, rowhouses and apartments are encouraged.
